Privacy & Cookies

What are cookies?

Cookies are small text files which are stored on your computer when you visit certain web pages. At Photography for Industry we use cookies to understand how our sites are used which helps us to improve your overall online experience. Some of the cookies we use are necessary for some of our sites to work whilst other cookies are used to provide tailored advertising by trusted third parties. The cookies we and our third parties place on your computer do not collect personally identifiable information like your name, address or payment details. To find out more about cookies, visit <https://www.cookiesandyou.com/>

The privacy of your information is important to us and so we want to keep you well informed about cookies. We shall continue to work on initiatives in relation to recent cookie legislation to ensure you have the best experience when visiting our websites.

The different types of cookies we use

Photography for Industry use the following categories of cookies on our websites:

Session (Transient) cookies: these cookies are erased when you close your browser, and do not collect information from your computer. They typically store information in the form of a session identification that does not personally identify the user. Without these cookies some services you have asked for cannot be provided.

Persistent (Permanent/Stored) cookies: these cookies are stored on your hard drive until they expire (i.e. based on a set expiration date) or until you delete them. These cookies collect anonymous information such as Web surfing behaviour and/or user preferences for this website.

Managing cookies

If you'd prefer to restrict, block or delete cookies from Photography for Industry and our third-party advertisers, or any other website, you can use your browser to do this. Each browser is different, so check the 'Help' menu of your browser to learn how to change your cookie preferences. If you choose to disable all cookies, we cannot guarantee the performance of our websites and some features may not work as expected.

Changes to this privacy notice

We will keep this privacy notice under regular review, and we will place any updates here. At the start of this privacy notice we will tell you when it was last updated.
